

I am a professional freelance photographer with my own web site www.richard-cooke.com which has been on Google for the past four or five years.

Your webmaster said I should contact you about this. He said I should use the following format to request removal from the site - (or preferably re-attribute it to my site using the following url: <http://www.richard-cooke.com/airbus/previewpages/previewpage18.htm> ) The picture on my web site is lower resolution, but it is exactly the same one. There is only one picture like this in the world and I took it.
