Re: Digital Millennium Copyright Act, notice of alleged infringement

June 18th, 2004

As per the terms listed on: <http://www.google.com/dmca.html>

I, [REDACTED] on behalf of Ecommerce Hosting Solutions, LLC, am formally submitting a notice of alleged infringement to Google, Inc under the terms of the Digital Millennium Copyright Act.

It seems an apparent glitch has confused Google into believing that our content, located at:

1. ) <http://www.online-loan-calculator.com>

...is really located on another page, located here:

2.) http://premiumquest.com/index.php?action=rated&link\_id=454

For example, if you do a search on our first sentence:

Search query: 'Whether you plan on buying a new auto, or you are considering a second mortgage loan on your home, we feel it is important to base important financial decisions on sound, mathematical calculations.'

Search Results:http://www.google.com/search?hl=en&ie=ISO-8859-

We are asking that you please remove this dynamically created refresh page from your database and replace it with our index page, so that our intellectual property is not mistakenly, or unintentionally, associated with another author and website.
