This particular site (lawcrawler.findlaw.com) then has crossed copied a huge assortment of our text from our website from search results that they are then feeding back into Google Search™

Note: This site had started out copying search results and then copied more results of their results to the point where whole pages on their site have nothing but our original text.

Additional Google Search™ terms which display lawcrawler.findlaw.com web pages with our site with the copyright infringements:

Notes: lawcrawler.findlaw.com uses Google Search™ to power their online search results pages. There probably are many other pages with this same pattern. Because the site is a search engine feeding the results back into Google™ results, the ability to find every single occurrence is impossible for an outside person.
